P R O T E C T I O N

Protecting your staff is a key part of any fire protection scheme and we are always happy to advise you on the best way to achieve this. Purchasing and installing the best fire protection equipment is obviously important, but unless your staff know how to use this equipment effectively, it is of little use in an emergency.

We offer a number of training courses designed to meet the requirements of The Regulatory Reform Fire Safety Order in conjunction with your fire risk assessment 4.4 states you must provide appropriate fire safety training to your employees during their normal working hours based on the particular features of your premises.

Our courses have been used successfully by many blue chip companies and you will find they are a cost effective and practical way for your employees to get to grips with fire-fighting routines and equipment.

If you want to give your employees hands-on experience, you will find our Fire Extinguisher Safety Awareness and Fire Warden Course fits the bill. On completion of the course, participants are awarded a certificate and will be able to:

- Tackle small fires with confidence
- Understand the properties of fire and how it spreads
- Help stop unnecessary fires occurring
- Distinguish between the different types of extinguisher

Training Session Schedule

Whatever your specific needs, our fire training courses can be tailored to meet your requirements, or you can opt for one of our standard sessions, which covers the activities below.

- Introductory talk
- Video presentation
- Questions and answers
- Exterior demonstration
- Multiple choice questionnaire

A 'Fire Risk Assessment' is now a legal requirement for all businesses in accordance with the regulations and as from 1st October 2006 the 'New Fire Regulatory Reform Order, RRO' came into effect which also bases fire safety on the findings of a fire risk assessment.
